

Humility

Anton Enrique Rentuza

For me humility is one of the most important values because it makes a person feel more connected to the people around him or her. Humility could also save a person from stress and help him or her find true happiness. It makes a person realize that no matter how many expensive things you have or how many achievements you made, a person could find true happiness in their friends and family. I experienced this myself, before I always focused on getting the latest and greatest gadget, fast and luxurious cars. Even after all those, I realized that the only things that kept me happy were the jokes of my friends, the love of my family, and the support of different people around me. That was the time I realized that humility was very important, and it should be with me every day of my life.

I also realized that pride is the main enemy, pride makes you want to brag about your things and achievements. This might cause some tensions with you and your friends so it can lead ultimately to the dissolution of your friendship. Pride could also cause a person to make bad decisions because that person would mainly focus on the choice that makes him look good rather than the choice that benefits everyone. Pride is also dangerous because it makes a person who made a mistake stand their ground rather than apologizing and work together with the others to resolve the problem. Ultimately, Pride cannot really benefit a person since he would have a hard time interacting and socializing with the people around him/her.
